ACS Distance Education Handbook Released

The new course handbook has been released for ACS Distance Education for 2013. The handbook introduces our comprehensive range of courses. With over 400 distance education courses covering such a wide array of topics, this handbook is an essential compendium for anyone interested in further studying.

Some of the areas that ACS Distance Education courses include are gardening, horticulture, environmental studies, agriculture, psychology, health, leisure and fitness, animal care, science and business. Our distance courses are flexible to suit our students' busy lifestyles, and our courses can be taken online, via correspondence or e-learning.

To download your free electronic copy of the course handbook, please visit our website:

Our courses are the result of continuous input from tutors, students and industry over a period of more than 25 years. The input has come from formal channels (e.g. advisory committees, industry reports, student and employer surveys, etc), and informally, by alterations/improvements being made to course notes whenever an improvement is required.
